Puma Engine

The Ford Duratorq engine, commonly referred to as Duratorq, is the marketing name of a range of Ford diesel engines first introduced in 2000 for the Ford Mondeo range of cars. The larger capacity 5-cylinder units use the Power Stroke branding when installed in North American-market vehicles. The first design, codenamed "Puma" during its development, replaced the older Endura-D unit which had been around since 1984. Commercial versions of the Puma unit replaced Ford's older "York" ...

Besides the engine there is very little difference between the 2.2 and 2.4. I've been told the 2.2 seems to run smoother although this is probably just added sound deafening, new engine cover etc. making it quieter. 2.2 has a higher top speed of around 140 instead of 130. The rear door handle on the 2.2 is also perforated.
